

Quick bridge head of ops wins chartered status (NCF Online)

Stewart Lancaster, head of operations at short-term financing specialist quick bridge, has been awarded chartered manager status.

He achieved the Chartered Management Institute award through extensive work in improving quick bridge's systems and procedures.

Lancaster said: "This past year has been a year of huge success for quick bridge and on a personal level I am very happy to have been awarded the chartered manager status, I see this not just as an achievement for myself but also as recognition of the quality procedures and systems currently in place at quick bridge, which will inevitable help us achieve our future growth plans."

He now aims to use his status to further improve quick bridge procedures and to help the company innovate the short term finance industry.
